CREATING SCHOLAR COMMONS: A Case Study in Publishing Repository Success
Ann Taylor
Director of Outreach and Scholarly Communication
ataylor@bepress.com

EXPLORE 984,274 WORKS
FROM 330 INSTITUTIONS
Kickstarting
ScholarCommons@USF
Building a Framework for Success
FRAMEWORK FOR SUCCESS

- Set goals
- Take full advantage of your platform and services
- Build collections and support
FRAMEWORK FOR SUCCESS

- Get others in the library on board
- Develop an outreach and marketing strategy
- Report your success!
Set Goals:
Migrate journals
Publish additional content

[Sketches and notes on publishing, digital content, and media ownership]
Decrease duplication of effort
Increase discoverability
OTHER GOALS

- Gather a breadth of content from across campus
- Engage new and strategic stakeholders
- Expand publishing services
Take Advantage of Your Platform:
- Single, unified platform for journals
- Built-in peer review tools
- Showcase multiple types of content
- Excellent discoverability
- Unlimited support and storage
Resources

• DC Telegraph (blog) – blog.digitalcommons.bepress.com
• DC Resources – digitalcommons.bepress.com/subscriber_resources
• Upcoming webinars – digitalcommons.bepress.com/dc_events
Build Collections and Support:
Talk to people
KICKSTART

- Environmental survey
- Citation searches and posting
- Building SelectedWorks page
- Importing ETDs
- Onsite visit
WHAT CAN YOU DO?

- Set some goals
- Conduct an environmental survey
- Meet with a faculty member
- Start planning your annual report
USF Annual Report - http://scholarcommons.usf.edu/tlar_scpub/15/

For a copy of the USF case study and/or the Roadmap to IR Success document, please e-mail me and I’ll send them along!

ataylor@bepress.com
Over to Rebel!